Councilman Couch asserted he was unwilling to see the 10 and 20 per cent cuts put in to balance the budget because of unfairness to a number of departments which would be forced to cut all workers while other departments would simply eliminate a number of employes and retain basic pay for those remaining.

"I think the logical thing to do," he said, "is for the committee to carefully purge the city pay rolls of every unnecessary employe after consulting every departments which would be forced to cut all workers while other departments would simply eliminate a number of employes and retain basic pay for those remaining.

Drier Roads Permit Schools To Reopen

Commissioner George F. Longino chairman of the public works committee, yesterday ordered all available convicts to work on the school roads in these districts in an effort to have them in shape for travel today. Wells said.

"We urge the patrons of our schools to co-operate in every way possible in getting their children to school today—hoping that weather conditions will enable us to resume our normal operations in the near future," he said.

Its shaded windows gave no sign of the armed men crouching within. Machine gunners of the mechanized cavalry lined up about the train. Traffic was diverted. Armored fighting cars, mounting each an armor piercing rifle and heavy machine guns, escorted the trucks to the new vault.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS BY PAUL MALLON.

FATTENING WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—There will be no denying that President Roosevelt's reorganization plan knocked his congressional leaders approximately speechless. Some like Speaker Word 'Mate' I will have to see his congressional leaders approximately speechless. Some, like Speaker Bankhead, muttered only that it was a matter of great importance and Others begged off on the ground they had not read should be studied. the suggestions, while a few frankly declined to express themselves aloud. This seemed inappropriate for legislators who were ready ten days ago to pass at once anything Mr. Roosevelt wanted.

The proper explanation was offered by a Democratic senator, who could qualify for one of Mr. Roosevelt's proposed six leg-men assistants, as he expressed a passion for anonymity. Said he:

"I recall that a W. S. Gilbert ship was once becalmed, and, as the crew had no food, they are each other. The cook finally survived and announced, with a knowledge of what was within him: 'I am the cook, and the captain bold and mate of the Nancy Brig, and a bosun tight and a midshipmite and the crew of the captain's gig.'. The cook would be a thin man compared with Mr. Roosevelt if this reorganization goes through as recommended, but don't worry. It won't.'

CONFLICT The confidence of the passionate anonym was probably premature. A peculiar inner situation has developed. Certain Democratic leaders appear to be banding to conduct a wholly inside fight against the program by passive resistance, arranging indefinite delays, etc., without ever saying a word against it publicly.

At the same time, others started creating machinery to ram it through Instead of letting the house select a standing committee to consider the matter, they arranged to have the speaker do it, in order that none except loyal administration men would be appointed.

In a situation like this, it is impossible to tell now the presidential program will survive. The consensus is that about 50 per cent eventually will be approved by congress six months hence.

PROBABILITIES Best advance guess is that this is what will emerge: Mr. Roosevelt will undoubtedly get his six new confidential agents. These jobs will be of superior importance. Six presidential chancellors able to control the roads to the President's mind from the government departments may develop more power than cabinet members. If each will be assigned a particular category, such as finance, national defense, etc., each may become the most influential authority on his subject. The effect will be more presidential control over the government departments, less cabinet influence.

The two new departments of social welfare and public works will be authorized, without much controversy.

The proposed presidential accounting system will be dropped into the first handy congressional waste basket and a substitute plan com-Congress will not permit the attorney general to write legal authorization for presidential expenditures and the treasury secretary to audit them, as both cabinet officers are removable by the President Congressional sentiment will favor a stricter congressional audit and control in place of the admittedly inefficient present comptroller

The President will get part of the control he wants over expenditures of independent commissions, but not the most important part. Congress created these commissions (like Federal Trade and Interstate Commerce) so that no President could make them vehicles for administration Safeguards against presidential control will undoubtedly be written into the law.

SUPPRESSION One other thing the President will not get is a central information bureau to "correlate" and "co-ordinate" the information bureaus of the various government departments. Newsmen here generally fear the suggestion as another encroachment on their news-gathering rights.

News gathering here has always been more or less of a game, in which both sides, the government and the press, are bound by unwritten rules of fairness. Government officials try to suppress all information detrimental to themselves or their causes. The press expects that. Newsmen seek not only the blurbs which the officials hand out, but the other side of the story. Officials who are big enough should expect that.

The machinery instituted by the recently enlarged press agent system had the effect of removing news gatherers further from sources of government news, except those officially selected. It was only insignificantly effective in that purpose. Officials are still complaining daily about unauthorized news which they consider to be erroneous or unfair, but which seems mainly to be objectionable for their purposes.

They say the new central division of information is merely a further insignificant routine step to promote efficiency, but any publicity authority knows that, in the hands of the right man, it might furnish the needed control to make the publicity system completely effective.

WILLINGNESS Not all congressmen take the majority view outlined above. Possibly 25 per cent seem to feel that congress will never compose a satisfactory government reorganization of its own and that the President must do it, if it is to be done. They are not much outraged about decreasing their own power and increasing that of the head of an increasingly strong federal government. They are willing to let the President take the power—and the responsibility.

The financial pirates stood solidly behind the Grant administration. The Republican party, which was founded on a liberal policy in the 1850's, had become before the next decade the defender of predators wealth and privileged interests.

Mr. Woodward makes another remarkable statement in his book when he says:

The Democratis have been, and may continue to be, the pinch hitters of the American nation. They have never been called upon to administer public affairs until the Republicans are tangled up so thoroughly in their cwn devices that they have no way of extricating themselves. The king in question loved a lady who had loved two other males to a serious degree, and the boss-parson of the kingdom took the position that the king should not make her queen because that would seem to indorse to the people the proposition that each If we have any natural right to anything, it is the right shared by all animals. That is, we are entitled to the necessities which we can obtain by our own unaided efforts.

Each individual has a natural right to the food and shelter and raiment he could produce or otherwise obtain if he were the only inhabitant of the continent.

But when many people herd together and form a civilization, necessary rules restrict the individual's freedom to obtain his share in the natural way; and by interfering with his natural methods of helping himself, civilization assumes an obligation to help him in other ways. Thus our civilization becomes, as a natural development, a co-operative organization, and each citizen profits by the labor of every other.

the word mate in this connection because it suggests a sort of thing with

If six brickmasons build a schoolhouse, should it rightfully be used by their children alone? What of the other citizens who produced tools will solve this little kink by skipping on to the next paragraph.

Americans Staying at U. S. Embassy Decline Proposal To Quit Madrid.

LONDON, Jan. 13. - (P) - The threatening guns of a British destroyer caused a Spanish Eascist trawler to free the British steamer Brambill in the Straits of Gibraltar last night, official sources disclosed today.

The destroyer Sussex arrived under forced draft after the Bramhill, stopped by the armed trawler, wirelessed a request for assistance, officials said.

The Insurgent vessel immediately sailed away and the Brambill was allowed to go on toward Bilbao, on the northern Spanish coast, after the destroyer's officers found she had no arms shipments.

Officials cited the firm action of the Sussex's commander as an example of the government's determination not to permit interference with British vessels doing a lawful business and not carrying arms to Spain in violation of British law.

Government sources disclosed the administration was puzzled as to what action to take in connection with the reported seizure of British-owned copper mines in Spain by Corper.

Dublin, torn by rebellion, was under martial law. Lord Athleigh came to Ireland for an investigation, accompanied by his daughter, Lady Helen Drummond. Accidentally Helen met Dennia Riordan, leader of the rebellion; they fell desperately in love. Today, when we think of the troubles China has been having with Japan and with warfare inside the country, we are not so sure that the Chinese have a happy future ahead of them. Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumstic pains, lumbago, les pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dissiness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Echoes From 'Gone With the Wind' Oneg Shabat Meets House Party Are of Great Interest

By Sally Forth.

ECHOES continue to reverberate from the "Gone With the Wind" house party recently staged down in Madison, when Caroline Candler's guests dressed themselves in costumes to represent the characters in Margaret Mitchell's famous book. Honeymoon House, the name of Mrs. Peter Godfrey's white-columned ante-bellum home, provided the setting for the affair given by her granddaughter as a complimentary gesture to Robyn Peeples, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peeples, of Atlanta.

When the guests repaired to their respective rooms, the girls tied big aprons around their waists and the boys donned overalls to attend the oyster roast and corn shucking held in the cabin. lights guided the way to the cabin, which was lighted by lanterns and candles, and the walls were decorated with pine burrs and evergreens.

Returning to Honeymoon House, Dr. Philip Nippert arrayed himself in the costume to represent Rhett Butler; Robyn put on an old-fashioned green dress, ruffled in yellow and stiffened with crinoline, to portray Scarlett O'Hara: Fred Stevens and Cahell Hopkins were the Tarleton twins; Sam Weyman was Ashley Wilkes, and Caroline Candler was Melanie Wilkes.

The guests danced in the candle-lit ballroom to music played by a colored orchestra, and the leader called the figures for a square dance. The house party guests went calling at Bonar Hall, a fine old mansion sitting far back from the stage-coach road and which overlooks a century-old garden filled with boxwood, hay trees and shrubs. The Geor-gian-type house, built in 1832 from bricks made by slaves, be-longs to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bacon, who were dressed to represent Mr. and Mrs. Merriwether in "Gone With the Wind." daughter, Maybelle, was portrayed by Theresa Newton, dressed in an old-fashioned costume like those worn before the War Between the States.

The copper roof on Bonar Hall was imported from England, and silver doorknobs turn in the massive wooden doors. A colored footman bowed very low when he opened the door to admit the guests. Colored mammes served wine from glass decanteers which have graced the Sheraton sideboard for more than a century. Delectable syllabub and fruit cake arranged in silver platters were placed on the Sheraton dining table, upon which William Sher-man and his staff ate their meals, when they made the march to the sea through Georgia.

A wooden clock 100 years old ticks upon the mantelpiece and the mahogany secretary contains books that antedate the sixties. A brace-back Windsor chair about 160 years old sits before the secretary, and the first entry in the slave register was made in 1775. An afternoon reception was held at the McHenry ante-bellum mansion which has been the home of five generations of this John and Hallie Mc-Henry Shinholser were costumed as Dr. and Mrs. Meade of "Gone With the Wind," and were assisted in entertaining the house party guests by Mrs. J. At the moment, I was thinking of how grateful I was that I had aken hands with about 500-odd people and really didn't feel very tired, the question started me thinking.

Of course, we all of us want days when we can wake up in the prining and say: "I can do just as I like this whole day through." Men have been able to do it more often than women, because when they cast off business cares they may perhaps also cast off family cares. But women, many of them at least, when they have families dependent upon them, whether they are the daughters or the mothers, can very rarely lay aside their business cares and not be confronted with a constant succession of adjustments to the wants and pleasures of others. Of course, there are families in which the father takes as much responsibility as the mother, but the fact remains that if he must have a rest, or feels that he must, the family won't fall to pieces as long as the mother, or the responsible daughter, is still on the spot.

So, as so many of us seem to worry through life, at least a great ficers.

human beings can sink so low as the kidnaper of the little Mattson boy. To treat a child so cruelly is inconceivable, even if it is done because of panic and fear. One hates to acknowledge that human nature, no matter what it has gone through, can be so degenerate that it does not even respond to the helplessness of a child.

There is nothing that can ever be done to alleviate the suffering of the court. the parents when children are taken away from them in this cruel way, but something can and should be done to wipe this crime out of our country, and I hope the agents of justice will be given full co-operation in every possible way.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forfning "clinkers". If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. It's funny about conversations at tea parties. The ones on either side of you always sound so much more interesting than the one you're in on. Like other people's newspapers. The usual result is that your own conversation dies of pure starvation, and your sparring partner hasn't really been given a fair trial.

We've finally, after much tea party agony, decided upon two things that we are going to do. First, we are going to spend five minutes after we've met a conversational tea drinker, concentrating on her. If, after we've really listened to her, and tried very hard to be entertaining ourselves, we still feel that other fields are greener, then we are going to begin concentrating on how best to make the move.

The greatest obstacle now had been surmounted. With West accepting the redouble, it is almost inconceivable that East would have run out since his leave in had been eminently sound.

But, to South's horror, his own partner now got underfoot. Having heard in redouble under such circumstances called for a rescue. North rushed in with a two-heart bid. From that point on, North and South never had point on, North and South never had one to pass.

FAT REDUCING UNSATISFACTORY.

If you break all records in reducing, you will not lose any time getting fat again.

Fifty pounds a year is the maximum speed limit, and that is too fast for some of you to reduce. It is possible to lose 100 pounds in a year—it has been done—but from then on life is a constant struggle with avoirdupois.

There are three reasons why fast reducing cannot be permanent in its results. To take off 100 pounds in a year demands an extremely severe diet. You starve to lose weight rather than change your food habits, but you cannot continue to starve, and as soon as you go back to your usual way of eating the pounds hurry back.

The best way to stay slim is to revise your food habits. Once you choose them as a matter of course. Also, any diet that is so low as to cause you to the athletic overweight.

There is one other consideration in the rate of loss. A strict diet brings to the athletic overweight.

There is one other consideration in the rate of loss. A strict diet brings miraculous results to the person who has continually overeaten, but if you have always tried to be sparing of your calories you may be disappointed with the results of a strict diet. The healthy condition of your excess weight and the absence of flabby fat makes the beginning of reducing a slower process. The loss of one pound per week is probably all you can expect.

Bob Decker Extends Grant to Three Sets Before Losing

Professional tennis gets along.

It lagged for a while when Bill Tilden ceased to be a great When those marvelous legs and that magnificent game slowed a bit, why then the entire professional game slowed. But now comes Fred Perry, probably the greatest player since William Tatum Tilden II.

It was C. C. Pyle, the amazing product of an amazing era, who really made professional tennis. It was Pyle who had dreamed his dream while running a cheap movie palace. And he lured Red Grange from Illinois and made pro football. He had never seen a tennis match when he took Vincent Richards from the ranks of the amateurs. He wanted Suzanne Lenglen, greatest of all women stars.

He sent Bill Pickens to get her; Bill Pickens, who had managed Barney Oldfield and auto races; Bill Pickens, who had made his start in the promotion and the atrical game by charging people money to watch ice

That was when the first ice factory was established in Nashville, Tenn-O-See-at least I think that was the town. Bill Pickens told me the story years ago at the Stribling training camp before the Schmeling fight. He was there as a sort of master of ceremonies, tending the bar set up by Madison Square Garden and seeing that everyone had a good time.

PAYING TO SEE ICE.

Bill Pickens got the first 100-pound block of ice manufactured at the plant and put a canvas wall about it on a lot

He charged five cents to see it. And the people crowded in to see the ice melt. It was curious.

Thinking on that, it never seemed so strange to me that C. C. Pyle would send Bill Pickens, who knew no word of French, to France to sign the greatest tennis player in the

But he did. And he signed her.
"Bill," I asked, "you didn't speak French and she spoke no English. How did you do it?" 'There is one universal language," said Bill Pickens.

"The old do, re, mi," he said, rubbing his thumb and forefinger together. "Money talks. And she understood that language. Or rather, her ma did. Smart woman, her ma.'

Bill Pickens is gone now, God rest him. He had been around and he knew stories. He was the product of the old days when they did things without so many "angles" and minus all the "inside" finesse that mark deals today.

They brought Suzanne Lenglen to this country. And she and Richards had a great tour with to cast of supporting tennis players. She played in Atlanta to a great house.

IF YOU KNEW SUSIE.

Pyle wanted to make sure. When he first began the Lenglen tour he took along some comedians. He hadn't seen tennis. And when he did see it he couldn't understand why people paid to see it. Although, at that, he did have a great admiration for the French champion.

The tour was not without its difficulties. I remember another story by Bill Pickens.

Al Schacht and Nick Altrock were along as part of the tour. Mlle. Lenglen thought they were terrible. Their pantomime of baseball stuff didn't go because she didn't know baseball.

Pickens said that one night in Montreal the ale was very

And that after the performance Altrock and Schacht took on a pot or so of ale. It seemed a good idea then to come and sing beneath Mlle. Suzanne len's Pullman window. And the song they sang was: "If you knew Susie like I know Susie-Oh, Oh, Oh, Mile. Suzanne Lenglen thought they were bums. Or whatever the French word is for bums. And she wouldn't move a step until they left the troupe.

a greater shock than it had when the word came that Mile. Suzanne Lenglen had signed a professional contract.

Pyle went on. He went broke on his famed Bunion Derby. He had the idea that people would flock to certain cities named as control cities if he were to have a flock of runners run all the way across America.

Certain cities were control cities where they must check in. And there was Pyle with a carnival troupe, cooch dancer and all, to garner in the money. The idea was a dizzy one. But the runners did it, all the way across America.

But the people laughed at it and remained away. Pyle went broke. Later he suffered a stroke. Just the other day there was a line in some midwest paper saying Pyle was better and said he would soon be out with other plans.

He put pro football and pro tennis on the map. And others came along to reap the harvest.

He thought of all the things they are doing now. He had Red Grange indorse sweaters, candy bars, medicine, anything that would bring in the money.

BILL PICKENS.

Bill Pickens-what a pity it is he did not write his memoirs! He liked to tell of the early days of the automobile. Once he matched Barney Oldfield and Jack Johnson, the then heavyweight champion of the ring, for a race.

Police stopped it.

The game was postponed from before the holidays and was a five-inning affair.

The auto races were his first live—and as it turned out—last. He stuck a nail in his foot while inspecting a new last. He stuck a nail in his foot while inspecting a new last. Grimm's signing took an item out of the baseball rumor market—a rumor that the genial gentleman farmer would be replaced as a result of 1936 contract expired December 31, but Owner Phil K. Wrigley said the signing ceremony merely had been delayed until the day of the annual meeting.

Ruddy and in high spirits, Grimm declined to stick his neck out by pre-dicting the Cubs would win the 1937 dicting the Cubs would win the 1937 championship, but said emphatically that he would have "a damned good club in there battling." He was highly pleased with the deals that sent Lon Warneke to the St. Louis Cardinals for Rip Collins and Le Roy Parmelee, and Woody English to Brooklyn for Linus Frey.

Naturally Hagen, an ex-marine, is all steamed up, ready to finish the job he started last week. It should be quite a battle.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—(P)—
The appointment of Lieutenant Harry J. (Hank) Hardwick, United States navy, as head football coach at the Naval Academy, announced today, assures that the system installed by Lieutenant Thomas J. Hamilton, United States navy, head coach for the past three years, will be continued.

Faced with the Navy Department regulations that an officer who has been on shore duty for three years must be ordered to sea duty, the academy ruthorities have been considering a successor to Hamilton ever since Navy defeated Army in Philadelphia in November.

In selecting Hardwick, they picked a coach, who has been closely associated with Hamilton, both as a player and as a coach. Both were members of the Navy great 1926 team, Hamilton playing in the backfield, and Hardwick starred against Army in the 21-21 tie played in Chicago in 1926. He also played on the academy teams of 1924 and 1925.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 .- (A)-Fred-

Last year the Giants surprised everybody by pulling themselves out of a midseason rut, hanging tenaciously to the league leaders for a while and then, hand over hand, pulling themselves up to the top—and staying there. At one period they were so far out of the race that even their staunchest admirers were beginning to look ahead to 1937, dismally certain that 1936 had no more to offer, and Terry had made plans for wholesale changes in the team before another season rolled around. It was a grand thing the Giants did, overcoming all the obstacles in their way and going on to win the pennant, but nobody—not even Terry—believes they could win again with the lineau that find. not even Terry-believes they could win again with the lineup that fin-ished the season of 1936.

So Bill is looking about him. He picked up Johnny McCarthy at the tail end of last season for use at first base, and in the winter trading has added to the control of the season and the die Steele, the middleweight champion, agreed today to defend his title against Eddie (Babe) Risko, of Syracuse, in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden, February 19. Contracts are to be signed before the New York State Athletic Com-Lou Chiozza as a replacement for Travis Jackson at third, and the veteran Tommie Thevenow as a utility infielder, but these additions to the Giants' roster will not solve all his replacement. Giants' roster will not solve all his problems, no matter how well they play. The Giant punch must be bolstered and the pitching staff must be refurbished.

More Than Hubbell.

For most of last season the Giant pitching staff consisted almost solely consisted almost solely.

For most of last season the Giant pitching staff consisted almost solely of Carl Hubbell. Indeed, I could go further than that and say there were times when it seemed the whole ball club consisted almost solely of Hubbell. When they were winning regulary, Hubbell was out in front. When they stumbled and fell, Hubbell picked them up. He started all their important series and finished many of them. He pitched in turn and out of turn, starting games of his own and winding up some that other pitchers started. The figures show that he led the National league in the matter of games won and lost and in the event more revealing detail of earned runs allowed.

But the figures couldn't show what the dark days of July, and the inspiration he furnished at times when it must have seemed to the rest of the players that the only thing for them to do was to give up and go home. Some of the players have told me that there were days when the only thought that kept them going was that they owed it to Hubbell. They couldn't throw him down, no matter what happened.

In 1937, the Giants must have more than Hubbell to pull them through. They must have somebody to take the place of Fitzsimmons, who finished with all his heart—but with almost nothing else. They must give aid to Hal Schumacher, who faltered too many times last year. And they must have somebody to close up the ranks while Terry is waiting for the Gablers and the Castlemans and the Smiths to achieve a real major league stride.

Sams scored 196 out of 200 to take first place among the amateurs. Stepned place went to J. R. Johnston, of Hartford City, Ind., who smashed 195 clay birds. A. Amman, of Peotone, Ill., was third with 194. Charles Young, the 70-year-old favorite from Springfield, Ohio, missed frequently toward the end and got nothing better than a tie for fourth at 193. W. Horton, of Moose Lake, Minn., had the same score.

As usual, the Cardinals rank as the foremost threat, because, when these fellows aren't winning the pennant themselves, they are the ones the pennant winner has to beat in the last, long leap to the wire.

Last year, the Cardinals were brought down by the injury to Paul Dean's pitching arm and the illness of Stuart Martin. Paul, or Daffy, already is promising to be fogging the ball through in his accustomed fashion next season, and Martin is fit again and ready to pick up where he left off last year—as the best young infielder on the circuit—when illness put him on the shelf.

Put Stu Martin back on second base and Paul Dean back in the box, and Diz and Lon—and Pepper Martin and Leo Durocher and Joe Medwick and a couple of other buckos like that young McGee who came up out of the chain store empire near the end of the season and pitched so well—and the dimensions of the Cardinal threat may be gauged even now, hazily at least. The Cubs, who looked for a while last year as though they were going to win the pennant, will be strong again this year. So will the Pirates and the Reds. The Braves, the Phillies and the Podgers do not rank as dangerous foes, but they don't have to Terry knows now that he is likely to have his hands full with the Cardinals and the Cubs, even if he gets all the replacements he seeks. Basketball News

The Georgia Evening School's fast quin-t will meet the Buchanan, Ga., Athletic lub tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the Y. W. The Buchanan team is rated as one of the strongest athletic clubs in this vicinity and should give Coach Layton's charges plenty of opposition. The Redbirds, with a record of 15 victories, now top the Metropolitan league and have suffered defeats only at the hands of Georgia Tech and Dickie Butler's G. M. I. team from Barnesville. While the Buchanan lineup is uncertain, Schutte and Enlow will probably start at forwards for the Evening School, Blackstock at center, with Glenn and Kidd playing defensive positions.

COMMERCIAL.

Basketball teams in the Atlanta Commercial league will meet at the Fulton High basketball court tonight for the weekly schedule, instead of at the Atlanta Athletic Club, which has been customary. The change was made because of conflicting programs with the Athletic Club.

With the first half championship tucked under its belt, the Warren team will meet Dixisteel in the feature game as the league ends its first half. Warren has not been defeated in league play this year. Dixisteel has been runner-up to the leaders throughout the half and will use every possible method tonight to mess up the unblemished record of the leaders before the half ends.

RAIL BROTHERHOODS

TO ASK FOR WAGE HIKE

Country-Wide Increase Decided On at Chicago.

Meeting.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Five railroad brotherhoods, controlling labor operations of the nation's trains, tonight agreed to demand a country-wide wage increase.

A committee of four delegates from each of the twitor considers and via third parties.

The American government, on May 21, declined the Japanese proposal on the ground it had no legal authority to accept it. Subsequently, the United States increased, effective June 20, the import duty on Japanese textiles. The rates, which had ranged between 28.3 and 35 per cent ad valorem, are now from 34 to 43.5 per cent.

Direct effect of the customs rate revision was restricted, because Japanese exporters had been selling with a comfortable margin of profit and could absorb the damage resulting from duty increases, to some extent.

The view is gaining ground in Japan's trade circles that something should be done to bring about a fundamental settlement of the issue, since additional steps by the American government might produce undesirable effects upon Japan's commerce with overed a wage demand.
